FIND OF HIDDEN WEALTH.

Owing to certain reports that Mr. and Mrs. S. Macauley were not in such destitute circumstances as they appeared to have been, a BULLETIN reporter made enquiries around town and was finally referred to Mrs. W. F. Allen. Mr. Macauley, it will be remembered, shot himself Sunday three weeks ago, and his widow was confined to her bed until 10:30 o'clock last Tuesday night, when she expired.

Mrs. Allen had taken Christian sympathy on Mrs. Macauley in her affliction and illness, and sent Dr. Wood to render professional services, besides personally assisting herself. On Wednesday, the date of Mrs. Macauley's funeral, the premises were taken in charge by Mr. T. R. Walker, the British Vice-Consul, the couple being subjects of Queen Victoria. Mr. and Mrs. Macauley had no issue, and no relatives, so far as known, hence the taking in charge by the British Consul.

After the funeral the house was searched, although nothing of much value was expected to be found. Judge of the party's surprise when gold pieces in tens and twenties were found wrapped in pieces of cloth in different parts of the house. The money was counted and footed up $299, $295 thereof being in gold pieces and $4 in silver. Such small money as fifty and twenty-five cent pieces were found wrapped up. The bulk of the money was found in a cupboard. In nooks and crannies around the residence jewelry was also found, but not of much value. Some pearls are said to have been the gift of an actress to Mrs. Macauley. In a bureau drawer a Postal Savings Bank book was discovered, which on being examined revealed a deposit of $1173. This was found in the dressing room.

While Mrs. Macauley was lying ill she told the woman who was nursing her distinctly not to go near the cupboard where the cash was found. The supposition is that Mrs. Macauley in a fit of anxiety hid the money in the different places.

If no lawful heirs be discovered, after twenty years the money will escheat to the Government.

Mrs. Macauley on her deathbed is reported to have kept an old knife under her pillow, and once in a passion shied a shoe at the nurse.

"My little boy was very bad off for two months with diarrhea. We used various medicines, also called in two doctors, but nothing done him any good until we used Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, which gave immediate relief and soon cured him. I consider it the best medicine made and conscientiously recommend it to all who need a diarrhea or colic medicine. J. E. Hare, Tinton, Tex. 25 and 50 cents bottles for sale by all dealers. Benson, Smith & Co., agents for the Hawaiian Islands.

The opening of the Dai Nippon, the new Japanese store in the Arlington building on Hotel street, was crowded to-day. Mrs. Collaco has a splendid line of Japanese goods, both fancy and plain, which are offered at very low prices. The store is fixed up in Oriental fashion and presents an inviting appearance.

THE WEEKLY BULLETIN, published this morning, is an extremely interesting number. It contains Paul Neumann's open letter to S. B. Dole, all about the wind-up of the Kalaue affair, the Citizens' Reserve Murder Gang, and Nordhoff's Letter about the Queen and her sceptophants. Mail a copy to your friends abroad. On sale at the newsdealers and this office.

Good Game.

There was a goodly attendance at the baseball game between the Kamehameha and Hawaii teams on Saturday afternoon. The Kamehameha put in a new battery, Henry Wise, of Kohala, being the twirler and Chas. Bridges, catcher. These two played a brilliant game throughout. They kept the Hawaii down to zeros up to the seventh inning, when Palmer Woods crossed the plate on a sacrifice hit. The Kams scored two in the first inning and one each in the third and fourth innings. It was a very quick game and the Hawaii admirers were very much disappointed at the result. The Hawaii had practiced hard during the week. G. Ross was substituted for P. Davis at third, on account of the latter's illness. The Kams will play their last game next Saturday.

THE SHOOTING OF STOLZ.

A Coroner's Jury Finds Koolau Guilty—Evidence Puts an Officer in a Queer Position.

Deputy-Marshal A. M. Brown concluded the inquest into the death of Deputy Sheriff Stolz to-day before the following jury: G. Burnside, E. O. White, J. H. Lovejoy, Henry Davis, E. A. McInerney.

Paoa, the leper that Stolz had in custody when he was shot, gave evidence that puts policeman Peter Nowlein in a compromising light. He testified that Stolz asked him for his rifle when he arrested him at Kalaue. Kapahae (Stolz's detective) proposed to let witness stay with him, but Stolz took him down; Kapahae went down to the beach for assistance; saw Koolau going down the other side; heard Nihoa's gun fired off on the beach; saw Kala standing on a rock; he started off and Stolz called him to stop, but he went off toward Koolau. Stolz took witness to a rock and told him to sit down; at the same time he pointed his gun at someone, witness couldn't see whom; a report was heard and Stolz fell; it was Koolau's gun; Stolz told witness to give his aloha to his wife; Koolau fired again and came and took Stolz's watch, belt of cartridges and pistol.

Koolau, the witness proceeded to testify, then told Paoa to tell the policemen to come and take care of the body; Nihoa and witness went down, but the policemen would not come; witness watched the body all night; Koolau told them that the day before Peter Nowlein went up the valley and told Koolau about movement next day; Koolau told Nihoa and Maunua to tell the policemen to depart.

Nihoa, sworn, stated that he was there when Stolz was shot; he fired a shot to keep the people from going up to their houses; met Koolau during the day; Koolau told him he would shoot Stolz if he could get a shot; Peter Nowlein told them that Stolz was in the valley, all alone.

Maunua, sworn, stated he saw Stolz fall, as he was watching on the road; Koolau shouted for them to go back where Stolz lay.

Peter Nowlein, in his evidence, gave almost word for word the story he previously gave to the BULLETIN reporter.

Dr. Cooper testified that either wound would have proved fatal. The verdict of the jury was that L. H. Stolz came to his death from being shot by Koolau.

HONORS TO HEROIC DEAD.

Military and State Funeral of the Kalaue Victims.

The three men killed in the Kalaue expedition—Anderson, McCabe and Husborg—were buried with military and state honors Sunday afternoon. Rev. Dr. Beckwith conducted services in the chamber of the old Legislature, where the coffins of the soldiers lay in state, at 2 o'clock. Central Union Church choir sang the hymns, including "Rock of Ages." The sermon was a eulogy of the men who had faced death for duty, under circumstances that made their memory more heroic than if they had died on an open field of battle. President Dole, Ministers King, Damon and Smith, members of the Advisory Council, Col. Soper and staff, and many prominent citizens were at the front, and the rear of the hall was crowded with people, mostly Portuguese men, women and children. Besides the guard of honor of the National Guard, there was a deputation from the Geo. W. DeLong Post, G. A. R., in honor of McCabe, who was a veteran of the American war.

The bodies were in handsome coffins, which were borne to Nuuanu cemetery on gun carriages each drawn by a pair of horses. Deputations from Cabinet and Council joined the cortege in carriages, as did Judge Cooper, representing the Judiciary. Captain Larsen and the squad of detectives occupied a wagonette. A company of 50 policemen pioneered the column, which was led by the Government band.

A firing party walked in front of each gun carriage. The military escort consisted of detachments from Co. A and the field battery, and numbered over a hundred all told. Floral emblems and wreaths were piled on each coffin, which also was covered with the Hawaiian flag. Brief services were conducted at the cemetery by the G. A. R. Post and Dr. Beckwith. McCabe was buried in the G. A. R. lot, the other two in one grave close to the Nuuanu road. A parting volley was fired for each hero.

"SIXTY DOLLARS!"

A Pugnacious Bluejacket Put in a Funny Plot.

Two burly-sized sailors from the U. S. S. Adams were the cause of no little amusement at the boat landing on Sunday morning. They had evidently been having a night of it, the result being that they were an air of driving at the boat landing where a steam launch was awaiting them, the sailors commenced "chewing the rag." The "chewing" led to the talk of rival merits of the two men in punching. One of the sailors with a pot belly, challenged the other and the men squared off. The challenged man struck the other a terrible blow in the stomach, sending him reeling into the water. He must have gone to the bottom, as it was some time before he reappeared at the surface. When he did appear he spluttered out, "sixty dollars, sixty dollars!" The bystanders, who had been thinking of dragging the bottom, were so amused at the bluejackets wet pliz and his comical exclamation that they burst out laughing. Officer Sheahan pulled Jack out of the water and set him dripping wet in the bow of the launch. While doing something with his shoes he went over backward into the water again, causing roars of laughter. When he was pulled in the boat again, he was angry enough to fight the whole crew, including officer Sheahan of the "force."

HUNG TO A RAFTER.

Suicide of a Japanese at Waialae Ranch.

Mr. Paul Isenberg telephoned in from his Waialae residence near Diamond Head at 7:30 o'clock: this morning, that one of his Japanese servants, that one of his Japanese servants, had committed suicide by hanging himself at that place. Captain Juen and Detective Toma made quick despatch to the premises and gathered the facts from the Japanese employees of Mr. Isenberg, some of whom were found fishing on the beach. It was evident that the Japs were trying to keep the matter quiet. Mr. W. Kinney, who has had care of the residence during the owner's absence on Kauai, was met on the road by the officers.

There is a little house occupied by some Japs, among them being one woman, a little way from the Isenberg ranch, and how they got their sustenance no one but themselves know. They were never known to work. Last night the Jap went to this place and, it is supposed, engaged in gambling with cards. Some of the Japs at first denied, but later admitted that he had been there. He was known to return home at 11 o'clock, and nothing more was seen of him until this morning, when Mr. Isenberg's Chinese cook, peering through the window, saw the Jap dangling from a rafter in his room. The body was cut down and brought to the Police Station.

From personal examination by the officers it was learned that after the man got home he locked the door from the inside and dropped a curtain over the window, a thing his fellow employees say he never had done before. He then secured a cord about the thickness of an ordinary man's little finger and tied it about his neck, the knot being on the back of the head. The man got on a chair and tied one end of the cord to a rafter, and then deliberately stepped off. What makes the matter look like deliberate suicide is that there was no evidence of any struggle whatever. His feet were about six inches from the floor.

His fellow-countrymen and friends do not know of any reasons for the man's committing suicide, as he was well cared for and had plenty to eat. A brother of his, when told that he had killed himself, remarked, "No good."

A coroner's jury was empaneled by Deputy-Marshal Brown, and an inquest was held shortly after the body was brought to town.

COURT CHRONICLE.

No Appeal from District Courts Except on Final Judgments.

Chief Justice Judd has delivered the unanimous opinion of the Supreme Court in the case of Ah Un, charged with conducting a lottery. In the District Court Ah Un pleaded not guilty and then moved to be discharged on the ground that the law under which he was charged was not in force when the act was alleged to have been committed. The magistrate denied the motion and the defendant, without further proceedings, appealed to the Supreme Court. The Attorney-General contended that, as no final judgment was rendered by the magistrate, an appeal did not lie to the Supreme Court on the point of law raised. This contention is sustained by the Supreme Court, who cannot find any authority in our statutes or in reason for allowing appeals from interlocutory or provisional rulings of a District Court. The case is sent back to the District Court for further proceedings. Attorney-General W. O. Smith for the prosecution; A. S. Hartwell for defendant.

The Chief Justice has also the concurrence of his associates in an opinion upon a similar case, where W. G. Smith, editor of the Star, appealed to the Supreme Court against the District Magistrate's overruling of a demurrer to the charge of libel, before defendant had even pleaded. The case is sent back like the other one. F. M. Hatch for prosecution; A. S. Hartwell for defendant.

The Supreme Court heard argument to-day on the appeal of Theresa P. Machado from conviction for larceny in the Circuit Court. W. A. Kinney for prosecution; J. A. Magoon for defendant.

Judge Whiting has ordered the payment, according to petition, of $500 a month to Mrs. S. G. Wilder for maintenance of the homestead.

On the application of the mine themselves, Judge Cooper has appointed Hon. Sanford B. Dole guardian of the property of Sylvester and Anthony Zablan, minor children of Anna P. A. Costa, deceased intestate, under $3500 bond.

St. Peter's School.

The closing exercises of St. Peter's (Chinese mission) School under the charge of the Bishop of Honolulu, will be held to-morrow (Tuesday), beginning at 2 o'clock p. m., in the St. Andrew's Cathedral Sunday schoolroom. All friends are cordially invited to be present on the occasion.

Last fall I was taken with a kind of summer complaint, accompanied by a wonderful diarrhea. Soon after my wife's sister, who lives with us, was taken in the same way. We used almost everything without benefit. Then I said, let us try Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, which we did, and that cured us right away. I think much of it, as it did for me what it was recommended to do. John Hertzler, Bethel, Berks Co., Pa. 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by all dealers. Benson, Smith & Co., agents for the Hawaiian Islands.

Made Over Anew

Chronic Headache Cured—Weak Lungs Made Strong and Well.

"For years I had sick headaches every day, and I also had very weak lungs. Since I have been taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, I have been entirely cured of headaches, and my lungs are strong and well. Friends often say 'How Well You're Looking.' I tell them it is due to Hood's Sarsaparilla. I am small in stature—never weighed over 100 pounds before taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, and at the time I began taking it I had run down to 65 pounds, but now I weigh 111½. My friends thought I would be dead long ago, but I am perfectly well. I am unable to express my thanks for the good Hood's Sarsaparilla has done me." Mrs. C. B. CARD, 1215 Adeline Street, Oakland, California.
